

A great new attraction is available in Hobart, Tasmania, especially designed for school groups and of educational historical interest, whilst guaranteed to hold the students' attention:

PATHWAYS TO PARADISE!

Free settlers, captains, and convicts ...
Hobart's history brought alive in drama

At the Whale Fishery Tavern, in 1824, there arrived...

... William Thornley, worthy but crusty free settler, and his cheeky daughter Betsey, two of the characters in this real-life drama of Tasmania's early days.

Treat your students to an evening of great fun, right in the dining room of your hotel/motel*. Great convenience, no extra coaching costs, smooth and seamless delivery of the performance between the courses of the meal service, and your students will simply love this hilarious but educational theatre restaurant show.

The music and sound effects will bring the Convict Days alive, the costumes are genuine designs of the period, and the stories of Capt. Kelly (known as the "father of whaling"), the assigned convict servant Mary, and the Thornleys who came as free settlers in 1817, are accurate and carefully researched. The insight afforded by "Pathways To Paradise" into the history of Early Hobart is presented with a touch of comedy to keep the audience interested and involved.

Don't miss this opportunity to offer your students this fun activity that is also an excellent educational tool. Teacher hand-out notes are provided. This proven entertainment fits excellently with the 'history & heritage' image of Tasmania, and is especially designed to meet the needs of school groups. Contact us direct for more details:
